The CITY of HOMES

VOL. XII GLENDALE, (LOS ANGELES POSTOFFICE), LOS ANGELES COUNTY, CAL., SATURDAY, MARCH 17, 1917 171

THE Rev. Francis E. Clark was the founder of Christian Endeavor. It was founded in Williston Congregational church, Portland, Maine, on Feb. 2, 1881, in the parsonage of the church. The first newspaper article about the organization was published in "The Congregationalist" in August, 1881, and was entitled "How One Church Cares for Its Young People." The first C. E. convention was held in the Williston church on June 2, 1882, when only six societies were recorded. The United Society of Christian Endeavor was founded at the convention held in Old Orchard, Maine, July, 1885. Hon. W. J. Patten of Vermont was the first president. The United Society of Christian Endeavor is supported solely by the sale of Christian Endeavor helps with no dues or assessments from the societies. The first local union was formed at New Haven, Conn., in January, 1886. Dr. Clark became president of the United Society in 1886, giving up his entire life to the work at that time. Christian Endeavor day was first observed in 1888. There have been world conventions of Christian Endeavor in Washington, London, England, Geneva, Switzerland, and Agra, India. Christian Endeavor has spread into every country of the globe. Especially strong in the United States, Great Britain, Germany, Canada, Brazil, South Africa, Australia, India, China and Japan. Christian Endeavor stands for the following: Definite standards of service and definite commitment to those standards. Open confession of Christ and speaking for Him according to ability and opportunity. The cultivation of the devotional life by regular prayer and Bible study, training in Christian service by a variety of committee work. Loyalty to the church and regular attendance upon the church service. Generous giving to Christian work. Christian citizenship. Interdenominational fellowship and the promotion of peace and good will among the nations of the world.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY CONVENTION

LOS ANGELES COUNTY CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR UNION ASSEMBLED IN GLENDALE IN TWENTY-FIFTH ANNUAL SESSION FRIDAY EVENING

It was a marked honor, a deserved compliment, to award to Glendale the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Los Angeles County Christian Endeavor Union. The Glendale boosters must have planned and worked well to get that prize coveted by many.

Even so, the Bay Union Christian Endeavor (Santa Monica and Venice) is now planning and striving to get the 1918 convention down by the sea. So mote it be. Their Fishing Song deserves the award. Chorus:

"Welcome, yes, welcome, many or few—
We'll sleep you and eat you—what more can we do?"

The big tabernacle was a blaze of glory soon after the shadows arose. Long before the appointed hour, legions of the youthful army were gathering. They were still under the moving influence of the Prayer and Devotional hour spent from 4:30 to 5:30 in the Christian church, under the leadership of Rev. W. E. Edmonds, of the Glendale Presbyterian church.

There was first struck the keynote of this convention, "Completeness," Col. 2:10. At the formal Opening Session of Convention set for seven p. m., that theme was emphasized by A. H. Anderson, County President, presiding. Two noted duets (Tancrede and "Chimes") were played by Professor Gray Tremaine Sampson of Pasadena and Miss Florence Benedict, student of the organ and piano in U. S. C., and player at Emanuel Presbyterian church, L. A. The Chapel Chimes, by Greenwald, were particularly effective. The heart tunes of "The old-time religion" were rung out from the piano, bringing dim eyes to many for whom they mean so much. The subtle coloring in that music accorded with the stage decorations—the C. E. purple and gold, and the leaves and yellow blossoms of the acacia, that plant with the deep root, occultly suggesting to those who know, the hope of a glorious resurrection in the fulness of time.

This Tabernacle in the Wilderness was richly adorned with the purple and gold which always sing voiceless songs to the C. E. soul. As those youthful legions set their tabernacle from time to time in each honored place, ending one convention with an organized campaign to make the next meeting an even greater success, their progress is as that of Israel's host through the "bad lands" of old, beset by foes within, without; but bravely they endeavored and persevered,

And nightly set their moving tents
A days' march nearer home.

The Praise Service was ably conducted by Prof. John Bissel Trowbridge, a historic name for a singer. Splendid as was the singing of the large trained choir, it was most effective, if less technical, while leading the old soul songs in which the great audience joined with enthusiasm from the first note struck. The soul of humanity is moved more by what it does than by what it sees or hears others do. That is the basic secret of success in the whole C. E. movement. Father Clarke knew the soul value of individual action and the multiplied dynamics of concerted action. The three songs of the Praise Service were: "Leaning on the Everlasting Arms," "Brighten the Corner Where You Are," and "God Will Take Care of You." Such songs placed the people in tune with the Infinite, in harmony with the Endeavor Convention Theme, "Completeness."

Then came the Devotions, led by Rev. O. P. Ryder, Pastor of Tropico Presbyterian church, impressive, satisfying. The long-practiced vocal selections given by the L. A. choir were well rendered, though their accompaniste, Mrs. Ruth Stickner Omey, was absent. But Prof. Gray Tremaine Sampson played those complicated, difficult anthems at sight, and but few knew the unexpected situation.

To science and art combined the unexpected hath no terrors.

The Convention was formally opened about 8 o'clock by A. H. Anderson, L. A. County President of Christian Endeavor. He was greeted with "The Christian Endeavor Smile," which means so much to any speaker or singer fortunate enough to bask in its inspiring effulgence. The confidence of the old Greek, Zenophon, was in his tone and salutation, the sense of "ante-paras-kuas-totetos, the condition of being the best-prepared-possible."

"Preparedness" is the keynote to the achieving Endeavorer. Then came the City's Welcome by Mr. J. S. Thompson, Chairman of Glendale's Board of Trustees. He is one of Glendale's do-ers, and makes no effort at the rounded periods of oratory. He was receptively in accord with the great program in which he took so important a part, that of the Lord Mayor of London, or other metropolitan cities, when visited by those upon whom the highest civic honors are conferred.

His welcome was short, tense, sincere; with unstinted hospitality in every sentence. He, too, was under the magic influence of the dear old songs. In his heart, also, they had stirred sacred memories, for he told how much pleasure it gave him and how he appreciated the honor to extend the City's greetings and heartiest welcome to the largest convention that ever met in Glendale. "We want you to feel at home. The City of Glendale is yours. In token of which I present you with this silver key to our gates, our hearts and our homes. The latchstring is out all through our beautiful city. A few years ago I attended a Christian Endeavor convention back east. In childhood I had been taught the Commandments and to lead a Christian life. I early believed that after I had passed into the Great Unknown the beautiful Jeweled Gates would open for me, and my youthful heart glowed with its pictured scenes of the glories within. Tonight I am happy to present to your president this great silver key on your twenty-fifth anniversary. It opens to you the jewel gates of the Jewel City—the fairest earthly Paradise known to living man."

Holding up the great silver key he said with a smile radiant with welcome: "Now you can walk into every home in Glendale."

This happily given welcome was joyously received and appreciated by the multitude of assembled guests.

Later that heart-greeting was practically and officially confirmed by the announcement, received with glad acclaim: "No one needs to leave Glendale to-night. Do not think about trains. We have provided ample hospitality for every guest of Glendale."

The greetings of the Glendale churches and young people were most hospitably given by Rev. C. A. Cole, Pastor of Glendale Christian church. "Being a preacher," he said genially, "silver and gold have I none; but such as I have, give I unto thee." But his old-time hospitality was full of the heart's precious metals, and the response was immediate and convincing. He told of the time, not long ago, but seemingly back in

ODD COINCIDENCE

GLENDALE BOY QUARTERMASTER ON SAGAMORE SUNK BY SUBMARINE

A rather interesting coincidence happened on Thursday when Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Goldsmith of 804 West Seventh street received a letter from their son, Frederick Goldsmith, quartermaster of the British steamer Sagamore, and on Thursday evening read in the Glendale News the report of the sinking of the steamer Sagamore while carrying food and other supplies to Liverpool. The young man graduated from the Massachusetts nautical ship Ranger, on which he took a two years' course, and went to Liverpool last October, taking a position on the Sagamore, but being only eighteen was unable to receive pay for his work, though qualified for the position. So he returned on the first of last January and took a special examination and received his diploma. Returning to England, he qualified for the position of quartermaster, being nineteen in February. His parents here are justly proud of his success, attained at such an early age. They were greatly relieved to learn from his letter as well as from the despatches that he was not on board the Sagamore on its fateful trip. A short while ago the Sagamore figured in a collision with the Klenindale, in which the Klenindale was sunk. Quartermaster Goldsmith was at the wheel and he and Captain Alexander Fenton were held in London as witnesses in the damage suit instituted by the Klenindale owners, it seeming that the Sagamore was not at fault in the accident. It was the first trip in 25 years that Capt. Fenton had missed and it was a very fortunate thing for the captain and quartermaster that they were detained in London by this court case, as the fate of the crew has not yet been learned.

DEATH OF JOHN EASTON

John Easton passed away this morning at Thornycroft hospital, at the age of 72 years, 8 months and 5 days.

Mr. Easton was born June 22, 1844, in Pennsylvania. He had resided in California for the past eleven years, six of which were spent in Glendale. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Sarah Easton, two sons and two daughters, William Easton and Harry Easton of Glendale, Mrs. Annie Corgan of Wagner, Okla., and Mrs. H. W. Hollenbeck of Glendale, with whom he lived.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Friends' church on Glendale avenue.

WHERE JESUS WAS BORN

One of the cutest things we have heard came from the lips of the little granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Turck, little 6-year old Margot Buxton of Chicago.

Her oldest sister, Virginia, and a little playmate were discussing the question of where Jesus was born, when the question was asked: "What kind of a house was Jesus born in?" Little Margot volunteered the information, "Jesus wasn't born in a house, exactly. He was born in a catalogue." In reply to the exclamations of surprise from her mother she explained, "Why, yes, he was born in a catalogue, a log house where they kept the cattle."

RECREATION CENTER

MR. KIRK MAKES PLEA FOR PROPER TRAINING OF THE YOUNG

Those of us who have lived in Glendale for any length of time and are interested in the growth and welfare of the community realize that there are a number of things we need and should secure at the earliest possible moment. Some of these things are of a public nature and should be provided and paid for by all the people, while others must be done by private capital. Among the former is a park or system of parks and the latter list includes a tourist hotel, which, I believe, if rightly planned and managed would now pay handsome returns on the investment.

In looking over our list of needs, however, if we put first things first, very few will dissent from the opinion that our most crying need is a recreation center which must include baths and a swimming pool. The fact that there is absolutely nothing of this character in the San Fernando valley is almost unbelieveable.

Nothing is so attractive to the average boy and young man as a swimming place, whether it be ocean, lake, river, pool or mudhole, and if he can't have it at home he will surely find it if possible, whether it be near or far.

The most important moral question of any community is the guiding of its adolescent and mature young men and women into the right channels before they get into wrong ways. If, then, we can fill this desire for recreation and a swimming place and make it one of the means of controlling their moral natures, we have a program which, it seems to me, we should all enter with zeal and enthusiasm.

At the next meeting of the Federated Brotherhood, which will be held soon, the report of the committee which was appointed about a year ago to investigate the working of the community Y. M. C. A.'s in South Pasadena and Whittier, will be made. A member of the committee which is trying to work out a plan for the Central Avenue Civic Center will also be present at that meeting and will tell what progress has been made in the movement. By uniting the efforts of these two bodies, let us hope that some plan may be devised whereby we will secure this real necessity, viz., a moral and athletic recreation center especially for older boys and men in Glendale.

The matter of a Y. M. C. A. has been taken up and discussed frequently, but because nothing has seemed to come out of it and because some doubting "Thomases" have said the town was too small to support it, is no reason it is impracticable and won't be done. It will have to be done, it must be done sometime; let's do it now.

Whether the Y. M. C. A. is the most practical system remains to be determined. Its workings in the smaller cities is still experimental, but seems to be successful in our two neighboring cities, from which we are to have reports, as above stated.

The central and most important thing in connection with the institution lies in the secretary or leader chosen. Around him, I believe, the entire sucess and working out of the problem revolves. Whether the man combining the general knowledge, athletic ability, moral and religious character can be found outside of Y M. C. A. training and control is the question to be considered.

Such a leader, if he be the right man, would and should command a good salary and would be the best investment the citizens could make. Think of what a power such a man could be. His business would be to awaken enthusiasm in athletics in every young man and older in town. Baseball clubs, basketball, football, tennis and many forms of athletics would be fostered, pitting men of different ages, types, professions and locations against each other. This alone would add a zest and an interest to the life of the town that would be worth much more than it cost, but of vastly greater value would be the moral and religious influence which such a man could yield, especially with the large number of boys and young men who now spend their idle hours loafing, telling shady stories or worse, going into "the city" to places and associations which drag them down. Many of these fellows are not bad at heart, but, either through lack of home training or natural inclination are not taken care of by the churches, yet can be made men of good character and attainments if given the right leader in the things which are attractive to every healthy young man.

The Y. M. C. A.'s in South Pasadena and Whittier have no baths or building, but I believe they could add vastly to their efficiency if they had these in some form. I am sure these factors would be almost a necessity in Glendale, and with moderate fees and memberships could be made almost if not entirely self supporting.

The first cost and the salary of the secretary or leader would be the principal items to be provided and these would have to be taken care of either by liberal pledges of the citizens or by taxation. The working out of these plans is a matter which is before us and which will have to be solved soon. We cannot get away from it. The question is not "how much will it cost?" but "is it worth the money?"

W. B. KIRK.

The Glendale committee for the entertainment of the delegates report they have had a wonderful response. Up to the present 1875 delegates have registered and many who had promised entertainment were disappointed in not having guests last night. Many more delegates are expected to-night and Sunday.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

LIBRARY STAFF CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARIES AT MRS. DANFORD'S HOME

Mrs. Alma J. Danford was hostess Thursday evening at a very delightful birthday party given to the members of the library staff and a few of their friends. The girls were invited to meet at the home of Mrs. Danford, 914 W. Fifth street, after library hours to celebrate the birthdays of two members of the staff, Miss Laura Roberts and Miss Esther Grist, whose birthdays occurred this week. Miss Mae Church, high school librarian, who is considered a member of the library family, also has a birthday this month and she was included in the guests of honor as well as Miss Ellene Grist, another March birthday girl. In order to include everyone eligible in this celebration the birthday of St. Patrick was recognized in the green and white decorations. Games and music were very much enjoyed by the young people and dainty refreshments, including a birthday cake with candles were served. The evening was very much enjoyed by the guests and tended to strengthen the spirit of love and co-operation so noticeable between Mrs. Danford and the members of her staff.

"WELCOME"

J. C. SHERER RECALLS EARLY DAYS OF C. E. IN GLENDALE

Welcome Christian Soldiers, camping on the trail,
In your mortal lexicon there's no such word as fail

This introduction is just put in for the purpose of showing how easy it is to write poetry. You remember that Sam Weller had something to say about "dropping into verse;" well, the art has not been list. I have frequently done it, as a bilious critic might say, with a "dull thud," only that that expression, once so popular, has been held up to ridicule to such an extent that it is no longer considered good form. Another critic might remark that the above lines are nothing more nor less than plain plagiarism, but I could come back at him with Austin Dobson (a most poetical poet, by the way) who replied in verse once to a critic by saying that "the man who plants cabbages imitates too;" so altogether the above couplet might as well be allowed to pass, for it's quite the best I shall do, at this time. I did think of writing an epic for this occasion, but having a natural bent toward moralizing I feared the result might only be Epic-tetus. There, that's pretty bad, but in extenuation I point to the fact that I write looking out upon the "glorious sunshine of California air," and a little of it has crept into my blood. You know what the spring does to the burnished dove and a young man's fancy and will excuse a lapse of this kind, not that I am a dove, and as for being young, it's a habit acquired in this case away back in the last century.

I started in to say "welcome" to the members of the Christian Endeavor convention who are the guests of our city today, but even that is a superfluous effort for they have been hearing the word and imbibing the spirit of it for lo these many hours and as they look about them and see the evidence of it everywhere; the mountains on the north proclaim it, the lesser hills repeat it to the valley, the sun in his rising and his going down bespeaks it for the east and the west and the gentle breezes wafted in from the Pacific are the message from the south that our visitors imbibe with every breath. There now, as Patrnck Henry might say, if that's poetry make the most of it.

I am not in possession of statistics in regard to the Christian Endeavor society, but it must be getting up in years, for it was quite a good while ago that one of the first ministers of the Presbyterian church in Glendale said to his congregation at the close of the service one Sunday, "I know that some of the members of the congregation think that we have enough organizations connected with the church now, but I am going to ask you to help me form another. I want this church to have a Christian Endeavor society," and as he was a pretty masterful sort of a minister he had his own way about it The society grew and prospered to such an extent that a Junior and an Intermediate have been added to the local body. The people of the Glendale of that time were a pretty enthusiastic lot of citizens and had big hopes for the future, but I doubt if any of the members of the C. E. society dared to dream that some day Glendale would keep open house for a big convention such as is assembled here today. At that time the population of the territory now comprising Glendale did not number more than five hundred; today there

LOCAL CONVENTION COMMITTEE

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

By Samuel Parker

Camping within our borders for a few days is a large detachment of young people, actively religious but not denominational, whose coming honors our city, whose stay every one wishes to be pleasant and whose manners and bearing are of a kind calculated to make us regret their departure. It is a small detachment, territorial lines being identical with Los Angeles county, while the grand central body is counted by millions and covers the habitable glob

Most religious organizations have "young" societies of their own in which they seek to gather for congeniality, study and religious betterments. The Methodists have the Epworth league, the Baptists the Young Peoples, the Lutherans the Luther league and perhaps there are others specially denominational, all vigorous, forceful, aggressive and mainly in youthful hands, but the C. E. by a sort of sweepstakes movement seems to have been very successful in gathering in all the rest and Father Clark stands at the head of the list as an organizer of men and women, old and young, for active Christian work.

The C. E. organization is not in any sense a sect or church body, but more properly an association pledged to activity in Christian lines of work and this activity is stimulated and educated for intelligent action by conventions, schools of methods, and various social forces that make themselves felt in the church organizations and extend to the world outside. Evangelistic and Sunday school work, Bible study and schools, Chautauquas and summer institutes are largely in the hands of these young people's societies today, and they are behind much of the organized charitable work of every community, nor should it be omitted to mention that these splendid youthful organizations are decidedly missionary enthusiasts and familiar with the most successful methods of raising funds for that too often neglected department of Christian work.

The question is often asked "Does these outside activities of conventions and meets, largely of a social nature, detract from the interests of the local church and to that extent weaken the hands of the pastor?" Should a layman be permitted to reply he would say this, that would depend on the individual. To the extent that you could always find him seeking the show end of meetings, getting his name in the papers and never seen at the prayer meeting of his church or manifest any interest in local church affairs the answer would be yes. In all other cases, no.

It is hardly proper to call any of these societies (especially the C. E.) "young people's," as none of them have a strict age limit. In the Epworth league are many octogenarians and Father Clark would not exclude any one if active at 100. Still in a general way the age question will regulate itself and members gravitate to lines of congeniality.

TO REPRODUCE HOME OF CALIFORNIA DONS

Ground has been broken for construction of the Casa de Adobe, a faithful replica, in architectural detail, material and method of construction, of a California home in the romantic days of the dons, says the South Pasadena Record. It will be erected on Woodside Terrace, opposite Sycamore grove, by the Hispanic Society of California, in which several people of South Pasadena and vicinity are much interested.

The site overlooks the Arroyo Seco, with the Southwest Museum crowning the stately eminence at the rear. It conforms perfectly to the situation which was usually chosen for the early California home places. The building will be one story, of adobe brick. The walls will be two feet thick and the floors will be mud and flat adobe brick. The woodwork will be rough hewn, sun-dried and weathtred. The windows will be small panes iron-barred and all doors will be metal strapped on hand hammered hinges.

The adobe bricks, woodwork, tile and metals to be used will be made on the ground. All the interior woodwork will be fashioned by hand and the metal that enters the construction will be hand-forged or hand-hammered, as the case may be, by skilled artisans, just as in the early days when the homes of the dons were built in the wilderness. All woods will be cut from California metals will come from California mines and the workmen will be native sons.

Each room of the Casa de Adobe will be furnished by an old California family with genuine antiques, it being intended that nothing under 100 years old shall find place in the building. The house will have red tile roofing and will be 110x169 feet, built around a patio seventy-five feet square, with a plia or water drain in the center.

In the rear there is a corral covered with brambles. In fact, every minute detail that was to be found in the historic adobes of the early Spaniards of California will be found reproduced in Casa de Adobe as truly as in the days when those picturesque homes dotted myriad valleys in the far-flung dominions of the Spanish king.

The officers of the Hispanic Society of California are: Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner, president; John G. Mott and Edward L. Doheney, vice presidents; Dr. Hector Alliott, secretary and treasurer; directors, Henry W. O'Melveny, Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner, Edward L. Doheny, R. F. del Valle, Norman Bridge, George S. Patton of San Marino and John G. Mott.

In spite of the fact that the Colonel has offered his services and those of his four sons, it might be well to look to our other defenses. —Charleston News and Courier.

WILLIE'S FERVENT WISH

Papa was sitting by the table reading his evening paper. Generally, when he came across an item of interest, he read it aloud to mamma. Little Willie, a typical "little pitcher with big ears," as a rule was not in the least concerned about the items his father read aloud, But the other evening he was mightily interested.

INTERESTING FACTS

GLEANED FROM GLENDALE CITY DIRECTORY JUST ISSUED

The city directory just issued by the Evening News discloses many interesting facts concerning our city and our neighbor, Tropico, and one of the most satisfactory bits of information it gives is the steady increase in population. Glendale's population by actual count is 8639. The population in 1915, according to the official city census was 7556 and in 1910 the figures given by the official U. S. census were 2742. This means a gain of 5897 in the past seven years and a gain of 1083 since the 1915 city census was taken. As each newcomer to Glendale is generally followed by others to whom they write "come and see for yourself," it is reasonable to suppose that the next few years will see a much larger increase in the population of Glendale.

It is always interesting to note the most popular name among the inhabitants of a city and the Smiths carry off the honors in our vicinity as being the most numerous, there being 90 Smiths, not counting the children. Adding the 27 young childres listed brings the total number to 117. Added to this are two Schmidts and three Schmitts. Next comes the Browns, there being 66 Browns and 4 Brownes, not counting the younger children. There are 53 Joneses, 47 Wilsons and 1 Willson, 40 Andersons and 1 Anderssen, 38 Millers, 34 Williams, 32 Johnsons and 14 Johnstons and 30 Wrights.

The number of schools and churches prove this an ideal home city. Glendale has eight public grammar schools and a union high school, one Adventist school and one commercial school, while Tropico has two public schools. There are fifteen churches or church organizations in Glendale and three in Tropico. There are four Methodist churches, one in Glendale, one in West Glendale, one in Casa Verdugo and one in Tropico; one Presbyterian church in Glendale and one in Tropico; other churches represented in Glendale are the Christian, Baptist, Seventh Day Adventist, English Lutheran, Catholic, Christian Science, Episcopal, Congregational, Christian Missionary Alliance, New Thought, Spiritualist and in Tropico the Dunkard. And all of the churches have the usual active auxiliary organizations and societies, so the spiritual welfare of Glendale is well attended to. And parent-teacher associations and similar organizations are connected with each school, bringing about a closer co-operation between school and home and making many contributions to school and playground equipment that would not otherwise be found available. Glendale is unusually fortunate in the personnel and number of its women's organizations, which are carrying on a work for the betterment of school, social and civic life unthought of in many other communities.

Most of the important fraternal organizations are represented here, among them being the Elks, Odd Fellows, Masons, Knights of Pythias, Federated Brotherhood, Eastern Star, Rebekahs, etc., which contribute to the social as well as social life of the community.

Glendale covers a good deal of territory and our people do not always realize the accommodations at hand for shopping at home that our list of business houses represent. With the following list it does not seem necessary to go out of town to purchase most of the necessaries or even the luxuries of life. The classified list in the new directory shows 31 firms dealing in groceries, 11 drygoods and notions, 6 drug stores, 4 furniture stores, 6 jewelers, 6 kodak and camera supplies, 10 cigar and tobacco stands, 11 meat markets, 7 men's furnishings, 2 milliners, 8 bakeries, 8 barber shops, 4 book and stationary, 4 confectionery, 4 paints, oils and glass, 4 electrical supplies, 5 feed and fuel, 4 hardware, 3 ice companies, 3 laundries, 9 nurseries, 3 florists, 4 lumber companies, 1 music house, 6 photographers, 3 art shops and studios, 1 harness, 1 hairdressing and manicure, 1 livery stable, 9 poultry supplies, 2 sporting goods, 2 sewing machines, 6 shoe stores, 2 tailors, 1 tea and cooffe, 1 variety store, 1 upholstering.

Glendale's interest in automobiles and automobiling is evidenced by the 9 auto agencies, 11 auto supply stations, 5 auto services, 14 garages, 5 vulcanizing and tire repair shops and 1 bicycle and repair shop.

Among the industries represented are 12 poultry ranches, 4 pigeon farms, 2 orange packing houses, 2 moving picture studios and 6 dairies.

There are 2 express companies, 1 gas company, 1 water company, 2 telephone companies, 1 house mover, 1 mercantile service, 6 transfer and storage companies, 5 shoe repairing, 3 general repairing, 3 blacksmith shops, 3 cabinet and repair shops, 4 undertaking companies, 5 banks.

Glendale is chiefly a home city of home people, but there are 39 apartment houses, 5 hotels, 10 restaurants and lunch rooms.

Glendale is a place to acquire health and many people come here for that purpose, and Glendale, Tropico and Casa Verdugo are fully able to care for their needs with 5 hospitals and sanitariums, 20 physicians, 5 osteopths and 6 dentists. There are also 7 opticians and 1 veterinary surgeon.

The growth of Glendale proves that the real estate men have kept busy and there are 38 real estate, loan and insurance companies, 11 notaries and 3 public stenographers.

Building contractors of all kinds, architects, music teachers and all the other essentials for the development and upbuilding of the community we possess, with a free public library in Glendale and in Tropico and other features of an ideal city.

Germany evidently misses her American notes.—Newark News.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY

the darker ages, when the slogan of the old was: "Little folks must be seen, but not heard," in the sanctuary of the Lord. How strange that the later Christian world so soon forgot, and took so long to remember, that the trusting, loving, doing child is the very symbol of Christ's Christianity. Our devout grandsires oft quoted the words which teach that basic truth, but seemed to entirely miss their significance. The Christianity of the young is the one white hope of the Church to-day, and the Christian Endeavor Society is but one of many of its exponents, though possibly the largest and best known, sharing in marked efficiency with others who work as hard and, in their own fields, reap as glorious harvests for the great Husbandman over them all. Mr. Cole told how the preachers of Glendale are a united band, all working as one for the same glorious cause, striving "To be complete in Him."

He said that our young people are being rightly trained. Then he gave a unique diagnosis of a true C. E. devotee. (Note the acrostic.)

1. Enlargement of the heart. Out of it come the issues of life.
2. Nervousness of the feet. (Make no mistake here.) Helpfulness is meant.
3. Deflection of the knees. Kneel often, facing towards Jerusalem.
4. Extensibility of the right hand. Right time, place, purpose.
5. Abnegation of self. The true C. E. must be altruistic in deed also.
6. Vigilance of eyes and ears, and heart to respond.
7. Operancy of voice to bless, as well as of hands to do.
8. Rigidity of backbone. (Wishbone not enough.) Stand fast in the right.

All such, or all willing to strive to become such, are welcomed and will find the blessings they seek to give.

Then came the Response to Trustee Thompson's Key presentation and Rev. Mr. Cole's greeting, joyously and happily given by Alfred Kurrie, President L. A. City Union. He said all offered was fraternally and gratefully accepted on behalf of all, for all knew they were welcome with the true C. E. spirit, from the time they were met at the trains by the glad crowds with outstretched hands, and faces glowing with hospitality. Welcome is everywhere. The very spirit and soul of welcome is in the pure, bracing, limpid Glendale air. He felt that Jesus must be here inspiring such welcome, and he hoped that their coming will truly honor Jesus and his devoted legions who have come here to work and worship with you.

The encored songs of the chorus male quartette were up to their own high standard. The singers are Messrs. Williamson, Dodelan, Books and Prof. Trowbridge. Mr. Williamson was also the solo tenor in the chorus anthem.

Arthur J. Gatter is the Past Grand, High Skookum Announcer. There is a pep and a tang to a commonplace thing when he tells it that makes the crowd sit up and take notice. While State President, things must have moved all along the line in the right direction. He said that the program contains all the announcements in full, except things that were omitted by oversight or miscalculated as to figures. By implication, the audience inferred that the gifted announcer thought that if those programs had only been printed in Glendale there would not have been—but that is immaterial now.

During the collection, Prof. Sampson beautifully played Le Zephyr.

Rev. D. F. Fox, D.D., Pastor First Presbyterian church, Pasadena, delivered a masterly address, "Complete in Him, Who? Ye." He showed that it behooves each worker to get into the right zone, be it material, intellectual, inspirational or spiritual. Development of Christian efficiency is a growth from the material upward. The right zone at the wrong time by the wrong worker spells failure.

He demonstrated the close sequence of all religious writings and teachings, from the traditions of the Patriarchs, through the law and the prophets, to the ultimates given by the great Galileean, Himself. Those teachings can be interpreted by each seeker after truth, "only by the authority within." So Jesus has an individual message for every individual soul of the countless millions in the past, the present or the future. The speaker made it plain that the greatest mistake in life is for a man or a woman to make it impossible to have the joy and the safeguard of that mating implied in the Divine injunction: "What God hath joined, let not man put asunder." He made it clear that each Christian, as well as every other citizen, should support, in all ways, the home community. Even the heathen are loyal to their home towns and regions. The true man and woman stand by to help their home city.

After silent prayer, the male quartette sang a benediction which found the hearts of all—the greatest convention first night in L. A. county.

NOTES

All tickets to the banquet sold. They raised the number from 800 to 850, the extras being quickly taken.

The big tabernacle does not hold all the people. There will be an overflow meeting in High School Auditorium this evening and another elsewhere, if need be.

The opening night of the great convention was in every way successful to a marked degree.

Since 7 o'clock this morning, the thousands have been busy, carrying out all the provisions of the great program.

Glendale has reason for joy and gratitude.

FIRE!

Fire is a fierce master.

The only sure way to offset its ravages is by adequate insurance. Most people keep their houses insured but overlook thousands of dollars' worth of property equally liable to burn, such as furniture, automobiles, etc.

I represent only high-grade insurance companies, and have selected them with special reference to their fairness and promptness in adjusting losses.

Let me quote you a price on your automobile or other insurance.

MONEY

The war scare has made money a little more cautious. Take advantage of present low rates and get your loans now. Money is the only thing that has not gone up. It's going higher.

I have various amounts to loan, ranging from $200 to $20,000.

I can save you considerable in the expense of procuring a loan by certain economies that I have learned by long experience. Talk it over with me.

SERVICE

I do not handle real estate but have excellent facilities for helping you to put your deals through with safety and despatch.

I handle escrows, prepare papers of various kinds, and render a general business service that is highly satisfactory to my customers.

My business in this line has grown to such an extent that I have secured the services of Mr. D. C. Waugh, a very competent and accurate office man, with whom I have worked for several years, and whom I know to be both capable and reliable. My motto has always been "Reliable Service," and he will ably second my efforts along these lines.

In order to afford my customers the proper comfort, privacy, and facilities when in my office, I shall shortly begin the erection of a building just south of my present location, to be used for my office when completed.

An elaborate dinner was served at the residence of Mr. John Cleeland on Wednesday, March 14, in honor of that gentleman's birthday. After dinner the dinner party motored to Los Angeles and enjoyed a theater party, of which Mr. and Mrs. Otto Nelson of Oak street were hosts. The evening was most pleasantly and happily spent by all.

The first rehearsal for the minstrels to be given after Lent by the members of the Holy Family Catholic church was held Thursday evening and much enthusiasm was shown. There were fifty present for the chorus rehearsal and several soloists. The committees are getting busy and preparations are being made for a very fine program.

There will be free excursions to Glendale Heights Monday, Wednesday and Friday, leaving 955 Brand boulevard at 11:15 a. m. Hot lunch will be served on arrival. Anyone desirous of purchasing a home should take advantage of the opportunity of looking over the very sightly tract at Glendale Heights. Acreettes and bungalows can be secured in that very lovely location on easy terms.

The Mothers' Club of the Acacia avenue school enjoyed one of the best addresses of the year Friday, when Mrs. Alma V. Lafferty, formerly a member of the Colorado assembly, spoke on "Vocational Training." She had much of interest to say on this subject. The program also included a piano selection by Miss Louise Dunlap and a reading by Miss Velma Gilmore. The usual social hour and refreshments preceded the program and a large number of members and friends were out to enjoy the meeting.

Rev. Stanton, who came here to visit his aunt, Miss Lyda Stanton of Park avenue, Tropico, left Friday afternoon for his home in North Carolina, having recovered sufficiently from his illness at the Thornycroft hospital to make the trip. He goes via the Sunset route on the Southern Pacific and will go as far as El Paso where he will remain until Monday and then continue his journey on to Ashville, North Carolina. Rev. Stanton occupied the pulpit of the Tropico M. E. church a few times previous to his illness and made many friends while here.

Miss Louisiana Da Shiell Spaulding of 121 West Park avenue, Tropico, will give a program of vocal and piano music at a public recital in the College Women's club rooms at the Brack Shops, Los Angeles, next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Miss Spaulding composed the words and music of a new song, "Iowa Loyalty," which she sang at the Iowa State dinner recently and which she has just had published and put on the market. The Spauldings are newcomers to Tropico, moving there about two months ago when Miss Spaulding's father engaged in the drug business at Tropico.

Pliny D. Finch's combined store room and residence, on the corner of his son's lot at 735 Pacific avenue, is rapidly assuming proportion.

Mrs. E. C. Copeland, who is in the county hospital for mind treatment, is not improved and her general health is very alarming.

D. L. Glenn and wife, who have been living at 1532 W. Colorado for a year or more, expect to return to their former home in Ashland, Oregon, soon.

Mrs. Lizzie Pitzer, 1521 West Seventh street, has sold off her big flock of chickens preparatory to going back east, near Chicago, to live with her mother, who was recently bereft of her only son.

Rev. W. E. Edmonds performed a wedding ceremony at the Presbyterian church this morning at 11 o'clock, uniting in marriage Miss Blanche Perry and Mr. Kenneth Fraser, both of Pasadena, the pretty ring ceremony being used. Only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were present. The bride has a number of friends in Glendale, having attended the Presbyterian church services here occasionally, who join with her Pasadena friends in extending best wishes.

Mrs. Herman M. Whitaker of 1448 Salem street was hostess to the Pioneer club Wednesday when a very delightful afternoon was spent by the members present. Mrs. Dr. Boeckman of Pasadena contributed to the afternoon's pleasure with a number of enjoyable readings and Mrs. Chas. Van Dyke favored those present with several pretty vocal solos. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, the decorations all being suggestive of St. Patrick's day. Those present were Mrs. H. F. Boeckman and daughter, Miss Virginia of Pasadena; Mrs. P. V. Potter, Mrs. Vinton, Mrs. J. W. Andree, Mrs. C. Brubaker, Mrs. Chappell, Mrs. Chas. Van Dyke and Mrs. Frye.

"WELCOME"

are, according to the census just taken by the News, 8639, and if we should count in our guests of the day the total would fall short of a million.

Those of us whose fortunate lot is cast in Glendale are quite conscious of its merits, but being a community of blushing violets as it were, we hesitate to speak of them—sometimes. It may be interesting to our guests to know that we were not always thus; unlike Minerva the city did not come into existence full-fledged, but was more of an evolution from sage brush and cactus patch to its present magnificent proportions. But the evolution was rapid; we had our part in the boom of the later '80s and then for several years experienced a dreadful slump, during which period town lots could not be sold for a song or any other old thing. This period passed in 1905 when the Pacific Electric Railway came to Glendale and the rejuvenation of the place began; the city was incorporated in 1906 and since then we have been insisting rather successfully upon our place in the sun and on the map. In many respects our growth has been duplicated in other cities in the last decade, differing only in degree, so that there are perhaps only a few things in which Glendale can claim to be original. We claim to lead the procession of small municipalities that have adopted the principle of municipal ownership. In a most successful department of public utilities, the city owning its water and electric light and power system, without any cost to the tax payer, the department having been a financial success from the beginning, and these necessities being supplied to our people at a price which if not the lowest of any municipality in the state, is only rivaled in two or three instances.

Glendale is one of the foremost of California cities in street improvements as our visitors who have ridden over our thoroughfares can testify and is also a pioneer in municipal tree planting and lot cleaning. It is also one of the first of the municipalities to adopt the city manager plan, the idea of which is to have a man constantly on the job, and it has worked well.

Should our visitors care to glance around them and reflect upon ancient history, Glendale is in the midst of scenes that have witnessed the making of it. Until within a few years the old Fremont trail over the hills between Glendale and Pasadena was very distinct, showing the route followed by the great Pathfinder as he passed over from the San Gabriel close by Eagle Rock into the Glendale valley. Looking southward to the San Fernando side of the Cahuenga pass, one sees the location of the famous bloodless battle of Cahuenga, while directly in the foreground at the base of the Los Feliz hills was signed the treaty of peace between Gen. Fremont and Governor Pico. Along the old Camino Real, now known as the San Fernando road, tramped many a time the gray clad Franciscan (whom you ought to see in the Mission play if you haven't) Father Junipero Serra. Along the Verdugo road on the east side of Glendale many a band of highwaymen, led by Vasquez and Murietta, have passed to and fro between Los Angeles and their hiding places in the canons of the nearby mountains. About the time that Washington was at Valley Forge, in that period that gave us the Declaration of Independence, the Verdugo family was confirmed by the King of Spain, its title to the Rancho San Rafael, three leagues square, of which Glendale is now the center. Then there was a period of peace in the valley for nearly a century until the Gringo came, upsetting traditions, bringing in civilization by slow degrees at first, but with faster strides as the years went by, which finally brought the development of today—and the Christian Endeavor convention to Glendale.

Business Prudence

It is the part of good business prudence to make a connection with a bank where you can enjoy a personal acquaintance with the officers of your bank and be able to transact your business with them.

The business of the world to-day is done on the basis of commercial credit—and very often upon the extent of that credit depends success or failure.

If you are known here as a reliable depositor—and if you ever need to borrow—your request will be given every consideration.

KEEP IN MIND THAT THE SERVICES OF THIS BANK ARE IDENTICAL AT

Your Highest Endeavor

Should be the safeguarding of your health to the end that you may promote your usefulness to yourself—and the world at large.

Selfish—did you say? Not at all! For—

Good health and good morals are intertwined—one is the hand-maiden of the other.

If we are to be morally sound and stable we must be, first, physically sound and able.

Your zeal depends upon your weal.

You may be tremendously in earnest but—if you haven't the physical stamina necessary to back it up—how is the world to know?

Your volition may be strong but—everything hinges on your physical disposition.

Self-sacrifice—no matter how noble or strong the impulse—cannot make up for a body weak, weary and forlorn.

Our spiritual peace is reflected in our physical poise. A pain-racked body cannot harbor a mind sober and serene.

Before we can teach others to be strong, we ourselves must be strong.

If you find your health is handicapping your missionary work—if you are not satisfied with half-way health and half-way usefulness—you will be interested in a new brochure issued by the Glendale Sanitarium of this city.

"Teaching People How to Live" is a booklet it will pay you to read and heed. A copy is yours for the asking.

This editorial advertisement is dedicated to the Los Angeles Christian Endeavor Society in annual convention at Glendale, March 16-17-18.

FIG PUDDING

One pound of figs chopped fine, one pound of raisins, one cupful of chopped suet, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful of cloves, one cupful of sugar, one cupful of milk (sweet), three eggs, one pint of grated crumbs, one-half teaspoonful salt. Stir well together, steam for three hours and serve with hard sauce.

The small boy was reading from his history: "George Washington was born Feb. 22, 1732, A. D."

"What does 'A. D.' stand for?" inquired the teacher.

The small boy pondered. "I don't exactly know," he hesitated. "After dark, I guess."—United Presbyterian.

The Question You Have to Answer

—IS NOT—

"SHALL I INSURE?"

—BUT—

"IN WHICH COMPANY?"

The Provident has been conducted with integrity and economy for more than half a century. Its death rate in that period has been lower than that of any other American company carrying an equal volume of business for the same length of time. The large mortality savings available for dividends reduce the net cost to policyholders.

Absolute security—integrity in all dealings—minimum expense to policyholders. Do these answer the question for you?

OPPORTUNITY—

——This is an age of Conservation. Every Individual, Company or Community is vitally interested in eliminating or reducing all unnecessary expense.

——The continued increase in the cost of Raw Materials—Food Stuffs—in fact almost every article we use, has made the advanced cost of living a genuine problem for most all of us.

——This condition is being met and can be largely offset by carefully taking advantage of every opportunity.

——We have hundreds of acres of wonderfully fertile land, right here in our community, that is available for cultivation. With very little effort our yards, vacant lots and parkways can be made to yield plentifully. We have the Soil, the Climate and the Water (750 gals. for 2 cents) and somewhere in our make-up most of us have a certain amount of this "Back to the Land" spirit. Are we taking the fullest advantage of this opportunity?

——In establishing this rate, our idea has been to remove every obstacle that could possibly retard this economic movement. There are no restrictions connected with our new water rate. You are invited to use water through your meter on any adjoining property for gardening or irrigation purposes.

EFFECTIVE IMMEDIATELY

The water rate within the City of Glendale has been reduced as follows:

$1.00 for the first 1000 cubic feet
$ .02 per 100 cubic feet for all excess

This rate is designed to permit and encourage the generous usage of water

SHORT HISTORY OF OLD FORT CUMMINS

Old Fort Cummins was erected in 1863 near the spring at the entrance to Cook's Canon according to plans designed by Gen. George B. McClellan and it was first garrisoned by California volunteers. After the Civil war it was garrisoned by regular troops, its last commandment being Capt. Adna R. Chaffee, afterward the chief of staff of the U. S. army. The fort was abandoned as a military post in 1886 and was leased to a cattle company a few years afterward. Soon the stately old battlements with its medieval salleport and watch towers, said to have been the most picturesque in America and the only walled fort in the southwest was turned into a cattle corral. Now only traces of the old adobe walls mark the site where old glory reflected the rising sun from the peak of its tall staff.

During its thirty years of service Fort Cummins guarded the overland trail beyond Fort Selden from the Savage Apaches. With the end of the Indian wars and the coming of the railroads the old stronghold became obsolete and disappeared along with the Apaches, immigrant trains, pony express, bandits and troopers. Those days are only a memory to a few now and prosperous communities, beautiful farms, orchards and ranches have been planted on desert once considered so "wild and woolly."—Deming Graphic.

A RECIPE

An Irishman who is noted for his wit went into a public house the other day and called for a glass of beer. The tumbler was not full enough for Pat's satisfaction, so he quietly asked the publican how many barrels of beer he sold in a week.

"Ten," replied the publican.

"I think," replied Pat, "if yer stand me a pint I could put yez on a plan to sell eleven barrels a week."

"Agreed," said the landlord, handing him a pint. "How now am I to do it?"

Pat, taking a big drink at his new pint, "Always fill your glasses."—Tit-Bits.

SOME COMFORT

When you walk the floor with baby
In an all-night crooning song,
Be thankful you're not in Greenland
Where the nights are six months long!

A LITTLE HOME IN GLENDALE

Affectionately inscribed to Mrs. H. S. D. on her birthday, March 18th.

There's a little home in Glendale,
That a great tree tries to hide,
Bending low its spreading branches,
Where sweet peace and love abide.

There's a little home in Glendale
Where the way of life is sweet.
Though the hands are seldom folded,
And oft weary are the feet.

Should one seek this home in Glendale,
There's a welcome at the door,
And a warm and cheerful greeting,
Be the comer rich or poor.

Faithful knight and brave hidalgo,
Honored servant of his art,
Length of days is worth the holding
When so youthful is the heart.

Mated well, and truly wedded,
Not a monarch on his throne
Is so rich as he who holdeth
One true heart to call his own.

Blessings on thee, gentle Jessie,
Give thee birthdays many more,
Till among the good and faithful
You shall reach the golden shore.

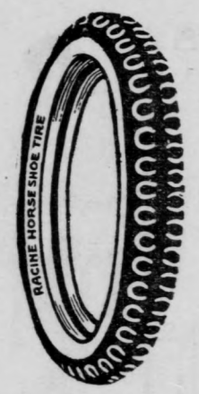
Announcement—

For years we have been keeping a business eye open for the best tire for the least money. We knew if we could handle that kind of a tire we would have a big share of the business of this town—

WELL! WE HAVE IT!

NEVER has a tire been built that will give greater satisfaction, longer mileage, or more freedom from road troubles, than Racine Horse Shoe Tires.



WHY?

Because the Racine Horse Shoe factory build into their tires the strongest fabric and toughest rubber ever put into tires. Because those materials are combined with the highest skilled tire-labor, directed by men of long experience in building tires, who know that to attain success they must make a tire that has super-endurance, and a capacity to stand punishment far beyond anything heretofore put on the market.

THE HOMELIKE CHURCH

Elder Cole's subject Sunday morning is "Endeavorers Who Shine." Nearly every Endeavorer can name the text, surely. Just to help them out we will quote the last few words: "shall shine as the stars in heaven." We look for a great sermon on this subject, one that will deeply interest every Christian. In the evening no service will be held in the church, as the Endeavorers will have the right of way in the big tent.

We look for 250 to 300 in the Sunday School, as a perfect day is promised. Put off that auto ride and come to Sunday School, stay to worship, then devote the afternoon to the big tent.

A policy of frightfulness necessarily presupposes that every one else will observe the rules.—Wall Street Journal.
